

A note from Dr. Stein...

What a wonderful, rainy week! Seeing the storm and hearing the rain is a wonderful experience from inside the cheery classroom.

We've been trying our hand at kickball during recess time. There's a feeling of elation that comes from working hard on something (like running towards a base) and then succeeding. But there's an entirely different (and just as valuable) lesson in working hard on something and failing...

Sometimes that's the hardest lesson to learn. What to do when we don't succeed. And if life lessons are anything like what we've been learning in school, we will remember that God is in control, and learn to deal with disappointment (try again! Don't let it KEEP you down!).

We've been learning about Job and his disappointments this week in Bible class, and the parallels to real-life are life-changing. We're so thankful to be in a school where we are free to study the Bible. Praise God!

Pastor Ryan was our Chapel speaker last Friday, he taught the kids the importance of hard work and how everyone should do their part!

Exciting things are happening at SAS!

Last week we were very excited to find out that Violet, our pet spiderling, had shed her exoskeleton! She is growing!!
